The average human life span in the United States has nearly doubled in the last 100 years. It is no wonder that “anti-aging” is quickly becoming a primary focus among Americans. Human growth hormone (HGH) is reputed to enhance the ability of the heart and circulatory system as well as increase a patient’s quality of life. A study at Bowman Gray School of Medicine in North Carolina showed the decline in HGH secretion with age can be reversed. Multiple studies throughout the United States are showing Homeopathic HGH to increase both HGH and insulin-like growth factor 1 (IGF I) levels.

What is HGH?
HGH is a protein produced in the anterior pituitary gland that stimulates growth of bone and muscle. It is the most abundant hormone produced by the pituitary gland. It peaks during adolescence, the rapid phase of our growth process, and steadily declines with age. By the time we approach 65 years of age, our pituitary gland is secreting 75 percent less human growth hormone than it did when we were teenagers.

Homeopathic HGH maximizes the positive effects of HGH through a number of advancements, such as the unique triple potency process that broadens the positive therapeutic potential of HGH upon our bodies. The lower potency (10X) works at the more superficial levels of function of our bodies such as the skin and hair. The middle potency (30X) works more in the intermediate level functions of our bodies, such as our glands and organs. The higher potency (100X) works more within the deeper functions of our bodies, such as the mental and emotional functions.

Formulas with additional homeopathic ingredients (including HGH) maximize the anti-aging potentials homeopathy has to offer many fold!

Using a formula with a pure water base unites the pure function of homeopathic medicine with the purest base. We no longer need to rely on the traditional bases of alcohol, sugar or glycerin to stabilize homeopathic products. With the pure water base we can best apply the benefits of a dual delivery approach. That is, to apply both orally and topically. The topical dosage adds a therapeutic dimension that the oral dosage does not always accomplish. Simply spray over the desired area for a localized effect, such as on the face, neck, belly, etc., to help with aging or weight gain in specific areas of the body.

Homeopathic HGH can safely enhance the growth and development of children. Consider using with a homeopathic growth and development formula.

Homeopathic HGH can be considered to be an adjunct in cancer treatment. While biochemical dosages of HGH can cause increase in cancer growth, homeopathic dilutions and potentizations of HGH can possibly decrease cancer growth applying the homeopathic law of similars.

Homeopathic HGH can also help with various problems associated with over production of HGH. The homeopathic triple potentization process helps bring balance to the body from either extreme. Homeopathic HGH is not a stimulant, but brings balance to a body that is either producing too much or too little HGH.

Easy to Use
The new medically metered pump spray delivery allows easy one-handed application whenever and wherever needed. Just two or three pump sprays in the mouth and over the skin (for topical use, spray pure water based products only) can provide the results listed above. An on/off cycling of the dosage has been suggested by certain groups. We have found that biofeedback response testing provides more specific dosage information to better fit the individual needs of each patient.

Affordable Price
You can find homeopathic HGH at a wide range of prices ranging from $12 wholesale to $20 or $40 wholesale. It is wise to shop and compare prices to provide your patients with the best products at the best value.

Broader Therapeutic Effects
Homeopathy works on the whole person at all levels of life (physically, mentally and emotionally). It offers the fastest delivery system on the planet. Because of its actions directly on the nervous system, results can occur as quickly as a few seconds to a few minutes. More degenerative conditions may take longer and improvement can be noticed within a few days to a few weeks. Individuals have commonly reported an increase in energy, better sleeping, a sense of well being, looking younger, weight loss and increased libido.

Homeopathy is a very highly individualized healing art. Results will vary depending on the individual and whether they have the correct formulas addressing the unique underlying causes of their conditions. If you are not receiving the desired results, consider other formulas to directly address other underlying causes.

There are various biofeedback response tests that help the doctor discover and discern what products a patient needs and does not need. These procedures also empower the doctor to know when to change doses, stop a product and restart a product. Homeopathy is most remarkable in its actions.

The key to homeopathy’s great success is finding the right formulas for each individual patient. Feel free to contact our office for further information to better make homeopathy easy and effective for the high volume broad-spectrum practice. Enjoy the journey!
